“For Woolrich Elite Series Tactical to take this important step, it was critical for us to be partners with one of the best in the category,” said Ron Bernstine, sales manager for Woolrich Elite Series Tactical. “US C-SOG’s training program is considered the gold standard in the corrections special operations community. Joseph Garcia and his team of proven specialists in police, federal, military and corrections have proven themselves time and time again to be the best at what they do. We are looking forward to this partnership.”

Garcia’s team of accomplished trainers has developed a program that is one to two days, depending on the size of the corrections agency and facility, which must meet certain criteria in order to be chosen as a stop on the tour. The session includes video, visual aids, one-on-one coaching and drills designed to give corrections officers the tools they need to survive any dynamic situation from a hostage takeover to a minor skirmish. US C-SOG’s trainers, outfitted in Woolrich Elite Series Tactical apparel, will utilize the latest training tools housed in the rapid deployment trailer, the only one of its kind in the United States.
